JOIN US FOR THE APRIL 8 ECLIPSE!

NASA's official website recently spotlighted the Lewis Center's Goldstone Apple Valley Radio Telescope (GAVRT) program for its groundbreaking contributions to real-time radio astronomy.

Partnering with NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, GAVRT's Solar Patrol team will operate a 34-meter telescope during the live solar eclipse event on April 8, 2024.

Dr. Marin Anderson, a research scientist at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory and GAVRT Solar Patrol scientist, expressed the uniqueness of the eclipse, stating, "It's basically a way of probing magnetic field structures in the corona of the Sun in a way that we wouldn't be able to unless an eclipse was happening."

The public is invited to join the live-streamed webinar on April 8th from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. PDT (1:00 -3:30 p.m. EDT) and actively participate by asking questions as the partial eclipse becomes visible in California. The event promises to be an interactive experience, providing insights into telescope controls, data visualization, incoming radio data, and imagery of the eclipsed Sun at radio wavelengths. During the broadcast, GAVRT students and teachers will serve as field correspondents to provide insight from the path of totality in Texas.

Register for our April 8th Eclipse livestream event at eclipse.gavrt.org.

Global Connections - Partnership with SBCSS

NSLA elementary students joined counterparts from San Bernardino County and Nan-Shi, a primary school in Taiwan, for a heartwarming celebration of cultural exchange and friendship during a livestream event. This event marked the culmination of months of pen pal correspondence between students from both regions, fostering connections across continents.

Our students held a beautiful ballet folklórico performance and an enlightening student panel sharing their daily experiences in their respective schools.

The success of this initiative underscores the profound impact of connecting through shared experiences and fostering understanding among diverse communities.

We're proud to share that the Lewis Center for Educational Research and its schools have developed close relationships with a variety of countries such as Taiwan, Chile, China and Mexico-- true to NSLA's slogan, we are Creating Global Citizens.

AAE Teams Place 1st in Destination Imagination Competition

Mrs. Ritter's extraordinary teams of elementary Knights were able to compete in the Destination Imagination Regional Tournament, where they were entered in the Technical Drifters and Fine Arts challenges. They were given challenges such as surprise challenges where they had limited time to complete it, and had to create and act out a story around a kinetic piece of art. Our amazing Knights won first place and top score in their challenges!

They will be competing again in the California State Destination Imagination Tournament on March 23rd in Fresno, California! We wish all of them tremendous luck.

NSLA Student Max Goodly Places 1st in County Poetry Out Loud Competition

Our Rockets participated in the San Bernardino County Poetry Out Loud Finals and we're proud to say our own Maximilian Goodly earned this year's 1st place title!

We're thrilled to see Max represent NSLA and our County at the state competition in March!

This program, supported by the National Endowment for the Arts, the Poetry Foundation, and the California Arts Council, offers high school students a platform to develop their public speaking skills, boost self-confidence, and delve into literary history and contemporary life.
